Enrichment Center develops character

Nicole Cina
Staff Writer

To promote scholarship, leadership, and social responsibility in residence hall students is the main focus of the Living/Learning Experience, said Debra Sandor, program advisor.

The program is part of the Undergraduate Experience and has been given a "trial run" in sections K and L in Griggs Hall this year, and development of personal and social skills were promoted through various activities. These activities ranged from movies in the Enrichment Center to section dinners and faculty/staff dinners.

Sandor felt the faculty/staff dinners were very important because it brought the students and faculty together. "The faculty aren't some elusive people that they can't talk to," she said. Some of the faculty that attended these dinners were Jackson Huntley, Dick Durst, Judith Gillespie, Ross Abrams, and Dean Kjolhaug, and various topics from summer travel to career development were discussed.

The Enrichment Center was another facet of the program which provided an academic outlet for many of the students involved. Sandor considers this a very successful part of the program as far as the students are concerned. According to Sandor, career development services were a big part of the Enrichment Center. Strong/Campbell Interest Inventories and the Discover Program set up by Dean Kjolhaug were utilized to help students assess their interests in relation to possible career choices.

A Physical Fitness Week was also incorporated and included several events such as a self-defense demonstration, body fat analysis, and a bicycle trip up the North Shore.

Although the number of students that attended didn't always matter and as Sandor said, "If we reached one person it was successful."

There has not been any actual research done to determine whether the Living/Learning project was successful in accomplishing its goals, but Sandor feels that "as far as being a pilot program we feel we have been successful." It also has not been determined if the program will be continued in the future but it is Sandor's belief that it will. She is hoping that it will spread out in the future to include all the residence halls instead of just a portion of one.

The program would still function in basically the same way in that the program would still have a permanent advisor but this advisor would work very closely with the residence assistants (RA), instead because they feel that the RAs are the role models in the dorms.

Stephanie Casterton and Tim Rich are the RAs in the K and L sections this year and Sandor feels they "are the main energy behind this pilot program. The RA's are the primary source for information for the students in the residence halls."

This program has been, according to Sandor, "the vehicle whereby people don't have to feel so isolated and they don't have to feel that they don't belong; because from day one there are things that let them know that this is their place. Therefore, they don't have to spend all their time fitting in and they can get right down to the really important stuff."

Commencement ceremony

Spring graduation ceremonies will be held Saturday, May 23 in the Duluth Arena at 2 p.m. UMD's retiring chancellor, Dr. Robert L. Heller, will give the commencement address. Heller, who has served UMD for 37 years as a teacher and administrator, will officially resign at the end of June.

Increased vitality, quality education is goal of focused campus plan

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

"I think it's exciting," said Judith Gillespie, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, in response to her college's next five-year plan.

"It is a successful plan, a bold plan, supported by the faculty of the college," said Gillespie.

The College of Liberal Arts Strategy for Focus plan is based on the five goals the college has set for the planning phase:

- *To develop an excellent core curriculum
- *To improve the undergraduate experience
- *To expand research and intellectual exchange

*To meet community needs for leadership

*To build selected interdisciplinary graduate programs.

CLA will develop and evaluate a core curriculum over the first two years of the planning period.

The document put out by the school shows no projected increase in state funding throughout the five years and major problems are likely to occur in the financing of English composition and Communication courses.

External funding, that which comes from outside the state legislature, could make a difference in the plan, but could not yet be determined. Gillespie explained that external funding comes from the federal government or private foundations. "A foundation is usually formed by money gained from a corporation. They have an endowment, which they receive interest on. You give ideas to the foundation board and they will decide if they should give the money to the campus."

Originally the campus had 22 programs ranging from departments, to courses of study, to centers. The new plan calls for the elimination of several of these programs. Included in the cuts are Law Enforcement, Journalism and selected licensure programs.

According to Gillespie, there

The Stomping Grounds

Timothy Louis Franklin

"No one is to blame...but then again?"

I've had many people come up to me this quarter and ask me, "Stomps, what is this 'No one is to blame...but then again?' quote in your column?" I'll tell the story once for all of you to read.

It all started last summer when I heard the Howard Jones song "No One Is To Blame." The song has affected me in one way or another since then. I kept on asking myself if situations affect people or do people affect situations. I hear many people say the former at UMD because of the "system." Then I hear, "I can't do anything anyway, so why even consider it." If people do adhere to this throughout their whole life, then there will be no one to blame for the situation they are in. People need to be willing to communicate their ideas freely to improve their situation. I can think of almost any event this past year and relate it to a verse in the song "No One Is To Blame."

There is the verse "You can feel the punishment but you can't commit the sin." This verse reminds me of the open forum with President Kenneth Keller when he put me on the spot and I didn't succeed under the pressure. At this time, I can look back and say I am to blame because I should have told him which award he deserved: that being, Ass of the Year. In the future, I will be ready for his wittiness and confront it with the proper response.

Then there comes the verse "The insecurity is the thing that won't get lost." This reminds me of the day Senator Doug Johnson submitted a bill which would make UMD autonomous. The bill made the student body, faculty, and administrators very nervous about the outcome of such an action. He was definitely to blame because this bill hurt UMD politically in our struggle with central administration for greater funding. It might be wise for Sen. Johnson to consult UMD administrators in the future before he submits such bills.

Then there is the verse which says "You can build a mansion but you just can't live in it." Capeharts was sold this past year so many UMD students will have to find new housing for the upcoming school year. We will have a new dorm erected for the following year but many students were disappointed because early planning was not implemented. This predicament must not happen in the future because this university is here to serve the students. It's hard to serve the students adequately if there is not enough housing available for them.

Furthermore, when I hear the verse "You can see the summit but you just can't reach it," I just have to laugh. This verse reminds me of so many things at UMD. It reminds me of students who just don't care about where this university is going. They see the summit, but they don't try to attain it. No one cared about the minimal amount of study space that the students had. No one cared about the underfunding the library has received. No one cared about the Student Association elections. The students have a lot of political power which they could use to pressure the proper channels but they rarely use it. Students could have a lot more services available to them if they only stood up to be counted. In order for UMD to get that "special characteristic," which will set us apart from other universities, we must be willing to go that extra mile. In UMD's case, we need to start out by taking that first step.

What I'm trying to impress upon you is that we are the future of UMD so it is important for all of us to start making an impact. "No one is to blame" is just too lame. I want more of you to say "No one is to blame...but then again?"

Thank you for such a great year. It's been filled with strange phone calls, letters from radical organizations, and many political discussions wherever I go. I will be back next year to start it all over again.

My last comments of the year will be saved for some nice people. First, thank you Stephanie Wright for giving a conservative a chance. Secondly, thank you to the Alpha Nu Omega fraternity for cleaning up all of the Torrance Hall grounds last Friday afternoon. You are truly classy individuals. Lastly, thank you Patty Jo Becker for going to banquet with me. I had a great time. So this is it. From Timothy Louis Franklin - Have a good summer...and be kind.

Keller refuses comment on funding study

Amy J. Carroll
Staff Writer

For the first time in seven years, the University of Minnesota Regents held a series of meetings on the UMD campus Thursday and Friday of last week.

In the first action of the Committee of the Whole, University President Kenneth Keller made a recommendation that Dr. Lawrence Ianni be accepted as the new Chancellor of UMD, replacing Dr. Robert Heller, who is retiring after 10 years as the chief executive officer of UMD. Ianni was approved unanimously and will take his new position July 1.

"I want to thank you for the opportunity to serve the University of Minnesota. I have a strong belief in the future of the Duluth campus and I hope to be responsive to the Regents. Thank you very much for having me," Ianni said in a brief statement following his appointment.

Four new Regents were sworn in at the meeting. Taking new positions were Dr. Jack Grahek, M. Elizabeth Craig, Elton A. Kuderer, and David K. Roe. Grahek is replacing UMD's representative Erwin Goldfine, who is retiring.

The Committee of the Whole meeting also included an overview of UMD programs by Chancellor Heller and Jackson Huntley, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

In the general overview of UMD, Chancellor Heller told the Regents about the activities and achievements on campus. He also cited a study which compared 10 universities similar to UMD, in which UMD ranked ninth in funding for instructional services and eighth in academic support.

President Keller refused to comment on the underfunding cited in this comparable study.

The Regents discussed the proposed higher enrollment requirements for admission to the University of Minnesota. Keller said these measures are not meant to limit enrollment, because if a student can't fulfill the courses needed in high school, they will become requirements for graduation.

Brief summaries of the other committee meetings are as follows:

Dr. Lawrence Ianni (left) was introduced by University of Minnesota President Kenneth Keller at a press conference last Thursday in Duluth.

*The Staff and Student Affairs Committee acted on several tenure and promotion recommendations, civil service class changes, and pay equity adjustments. A report on UMD Student Life was also presented by Chancellor Heller and Vice Chancellor of Administration, Business and Student Life Bruce Gildseth.

*The Educational Planning and Policy Committee discussed the Community College Articulation agreement, and reports on the Dental Hygiene program and on UMD Educational Programs were presented.

The Finance and Legislative Committee acted on variable rate bond remarketing and discussed monthly and quarterly reports.

The Physical Planning and Operations Committee acted on an addition to the Andersen Horticultural Library on the Twin Cities campus and the sale of some donated property at Mirror Lake.

THE UMD Statesman

The UMD STATESMAN is the official newspaper of the University of Minnesota-Duluth and is published by the UMD Board of Publications each Thursday of the academic year except holidays and exam weeks.

Opinions expressed in the STATESMAN are not necessarily those of the student body, faculty or the University of Minnesota.

Letters to the editor and guest essays provide a forum for readers. Letters must be typed, double-spaced and be signed with the author's name, year in school, major, and phone number for verification purposes. Non-students should include other identifying information, such as occupation or residency. Anonymous and form letters will not be published. Letters must not exceed 300 words and must be received no later than Monday at 4 p.m. for Thursday publication. The STATESMAN reserves the right to edit obscene and potentially libelous material. All letters become the property of the STATESMAN and will not be returned.

Plan from 1A

will still be a degree in criminology, however, the law enforcement vocational classes will no longer be offered and journalism will be integrated into communication, offering a track through that department.

Two major items in the plan do call for an increase in funding: faculty positions and faculty development. These will mainly be funded internally, but external funding must also be sought.

Currently, CLA stands as the worst college in faculty per student credit hour. The teachers in CLA teach more students and more courses than any other collegiate unit at UMD.

Lastly, CLA is planning a collegiate center that will provide high quality advisement to all students in the college. A professional advisor will be hired to help in the advisement of students.

"The Blandin Grant Board will be voting this week on whether they will be giving money for our advisement program," said Gillespie.

College of Science and Engineering

The College of Science and Engineering was established in 1984. The old College of Letters and Sciences' physical biological and mathematical sciences, along with the Aerospace Department, were joined with three newly funded engineering programs to complete the college.

CSE, like all technical colleges in the University of Minnesota system, has no legislative-funded research centers.

Currently, the college has a large shortfall in up-to-date equipment and facilities, but according to George Rapp, dean of the college, all engineering schools in the nation have this problem. "Yes, we are far behind in both industrial and research laboratory equipment."

To overcome this the college has secured over $1 million in new equipment donations in the past two years and has set up line-item budgets.

"Various departments received mostly instruction equipment," said Rapp. "We will have to continue to go to industry and foundations. The university budget isn't sufficient to maintain the level we need."

According to the college's Strategy for Focus plan, besides coursework, CSE is committed to providing students with opportunities in research, honors programs, individual study and special seminars.

"Right now we have many more undergraduates working on major research projects than any other college," said Rapp.

In reference to the overall plans, Rapp said, "We're not making many changes."

The dean, who is also a professor in the college, said the nine programs the college has are strictly mainline. "We are not going to be doing anything fancy; we will work with high quality."

The goals for the next five-year planning phase for CSE:

- *To enhance and improve the undergraduate educational experience
- *Achieve national accreditation
- *Expand external funding
- *Support faculty development
- *Increase resources to the library
- *Develop shop facilities

The Overall Campus Academic Plan

The overall plan of the Duluth campus in the next five-year phase is to increase vitality and quality education, not only here, but to the entire university and state.

"I feel it's a carefully thought out long-range plan," said Chancellor Robert Heller. "I may not agree with everything in the plan, but it is a good plan, one that will be useful in the years ahead."

In the plan it is anticipated that, because of the improvements to be made, higher levels of student retention will occur.

"I think the last few years, because of the retrenchments, we have had to reduce the service to students, say in the number of courses," said Heller. "This has probably encouraged students to go elsewhere. The reallocation of funds internally will provide a much better experience for undergraduates."

The planning process attempts to enhance the status of UMD to northeastern Minnesota being in an improved position to provide leadership in the region.

In his overall reaction to the plan and the region, Heller said, "I think it very definitely serves to improve the quality of programs and serve the citizens of Northeastern Minnesota."

Improving on the student experience

Jerome Paul Guidinger

The greatest educational experience of my life has come to an end.

These past 14 months have challenged me far beyond any dream that I could ever imagine.

As the Editor-in-Chief of a successful small business I have been afforded the opportunity to express my opinion and sometimes persuade people of many different backgrounds and beliefs. I was granted the privilege of being a campus leader within the University of Minnesota system.

When I spoke with Jackson Huntley and Bilin Tsai earlier this year about my undergraduate experience I told them that in terms of a weekly time commitment I know of no other student experience on campus that demands more energy than does working for this publication.

I believe leading the STATESMAN is one of the top three undergraduate experiences that is available at UMD: the other two being Student Association President and Student Rep to the Board of Regents. If I had the chance to do it over again, I would have attempted to gain one of those two positions.

Unfortunately for several years the STATESMAN has lagged behind technology advancement. Because of a severe retention problem and a difficulty in finding students willing or able to make this time commitment it was obvious that something had to be done.

Improving the quality of the student experience this year was our primary goal. The reliance upon an outdated composition system and the efforts of one professional typesetter were glaring problems that needed to be rectified.

Last year at this time after hiring my staff, my Managing Editor David Fischer approached me and said that he would be willing to initiate the effort to improve the student experience here at the STATESMAN.

He made it very clear to me, with sometimes not so polite language, that we needed a new computerized editorial publishing system and that we should make it a goal to secure one.

After much debate and a lot of thought I offered to him the complete freedom to devote as much time as he could to developing a three-year plan for the organization.

The overwhelming impressive fact,

...every issue of the paper presents an opportunity and a duty to say something courageous and true; to rise above the mediocre and conventional; to say something that will command the respect of the intelligent, the educated, the independent part of the community; to rise above fear of partisanship and fear of popular prejudice."

—Joseph Pulitzer

as I look back on the project, is that it was STUDENT initiated from the start. Mr. Fischer deserves most of the credit for this project. My management style does not offer as much public praise as some people would like but regardless of not patting him on the back every week he pushed forward and demanded that we meet our project deadlines.

I honestly believe and do not really expect that the next generation of students will know and appreciate the student efforts that were put forth this year in hopes of gaining a new publishing system.

The fight was long and sometimes overburdening but we have endured. The thing that I am most proud of is those 44 student staff members who fulfilled their commitments to me and the organization this year.

There were hundreds of hours that were required, in addition to the weekly work load outside of the office. The willingness and offers of help from professional staff persons made progress of the project possible.

With a position of high visibility comes criticism of decisions you make and the opinion you express. One of the most important things I have learned is to not take criticism personally. I believe constructive criticism is vital to developing personal growth. I am comfortable commitment to the university and to myself. It has been rewarding to say the least and an experience that I will remember fondly.

Becoming a better person after an experience is what I strive toward and with my editorship behind me I know that I have been successful.

The influence and support from friends and family has kept me strong even through the most demanding weeks. A personal thanks to the following people for making my four years here fantastic:

Robert Nygaard, Sports Information Director, who gave me the initial opportunity to learn/work in the print media. Betty Fleissner, Asst. Athletic Trainer, who scraped me off of the football practice field as a freshman and watched me end my competitive athletic career.

Candy Barnack, Bruce Bennett, Joe Bissen, J.D. Brockhaus, Steve Franklin, Rachel Fredrickson, Ray Hepburn, Rich Hirstein, Denise Holm, Gary Holquist, Donna Jedlicka, Andrea Jensen, Bernard Lindner, Amy Lovdahl, Dale Race, Darryl Szczepanski, Mark Stodghill, Darron Suttle, Tracy Trinidad, Mia Valentini, you have made my four years memorable and I am proud to know you as friends.

I am convinced now more than ever that it is not what you know but rather who you know.

The character of a friend is the only thing that endures. Will we all know one another five-to-ten years from now? As Brenda Bakken shared with me, "Only time will tell."

The 'real world' is waiting outside these university walls. It is time for J.P. to step aside and for Jerome to maybe become a Governor someday.

Deep Gratitude

Dear Editor,

Our son, Steven Waidelich was a student at UMD.

On Monday, April 27, he was accidentally drowned.

The family of Steven Waidelich would like to extend our deepest gratitude to all of his friends from UMD for their kind support given to our family at this time. It meant so very much to us to see so many of you at his services. We know he loved all of you and that you loved him too. Thank you again.

College life is more than just academics

Philip T. Ruble

Time often makes changes and at UMD this is no exception.

Back in the summer of '84, Kirby Cafe was remodeled, along with the Second Edition, Bulldog Shop and the bookstore, now named the "Main Street Store." Who made up such a stupid name? Credit is due to senior Brian Hartman, known as "Harley." Harley won a color T.V. for his suggestion.

Brian Hartman

Fall Quarter at UMD would not be complete without Grandma's annual Oktoberfest. The celebration held annually, gives you the best in German food, beer, wine, and polka bands.

One of my most humbling experiences here, came when I was a freshman. Suzanne Adams died after collapsing outside the RHDC. I was walking back from a class and I saw Suzanne lying on the floor while two girls were trying to resuscitate her. The girls were crying and screaming for others who knew CPR. Exhausted, the two kept trying to bring Suzanne back, and when paramedics arrived at the scene electronic shocks were administered. Suzanne never came back to her friends and family, but the two girls who tried to save her life should be remembered for their courageous effort.

Homecomings at UMD have always been somewhat of a disappointment to me. I expected college homecomings to be beer socials, bands playing and people being passed up the bleachers at football games. Hey, if places like UW-Stout can do it, so can we! None of this is to be blamed on the people who work hard to plan homecoming events. It's the students' fault, there is not enough participation on this campus.

Kirby Program Board should be commended for events that worked well this year...I didn't attend but I heard the spring formal at the Greysolon

As long as we are on the subject, what the hell are those people doing living along College Street and St. Marie Street? It's right across the street from a university for crying upstairs. In UMD's next five-year plan, I think they should include plans for fraternity houses to be placed along the two streets. UMD needs a frat-row, just without the fraternities, right!?

UMD has had some great parties though. First Street Gang's Greaser and Norshor parties were big successes. Better than when we were freshmen, partying in the Mogettos. Speaking of which, where do you think Village Apartments got their nickname? Who would have ever believed the tradition the name would start.

UMD's famous "Mogettos." Who made up the name?

One of the highlights of the 1985-86 academic year, was the now defunct YES Club's "You Handsome Dogs" calendar. If you can believe it, my roommate Thomas B. Lickteig was the former Mr. November. We also could not go without the mention of Rob Simon who also appeared. Big pins were great Christmas gift ideas in our household that year.

One thing everyone always looks forward to on Thursdays is the STATESMAN personals page. It gives students the latest in local parties, including how many kegs would be on hand. Here is a look back at some personals of the past:

Grandma's Annual Oktoberfest

How 'bout those 'Dogs? UMD hockey will surely not be forgotten by many graduating seniors. Mike Sertich became head coach in 1982 and in March of that year the Bulldogs made it to the NCAA hockey tourney for the first time ever! Up until this year, the worst part of the entire season was waiting in line for tickets. But like all creative young college students, everyone here made it a big party.

One question for Duluth Arena-Auditorium red coats. How hard do you really think it is to sneak in a 12-pack, pint of Windsor, and a half-pint of J.D.? Students can always beat the system!

Plaza was a big success. What took so long? Another idea that should be kept is the Music Fest held last weekend on the Kirby Terrace. Colleges like St. Olaf and St. John's have an annual event every year. A recommendation to Scott Skibness, next year's KPB Coordinator: Keep it. Even if not many students showed up this year, annually it will become a big event. As many people have suggested one main attraction band might work better. One more thing, don't let neighbors complaints about noise stop you. If people are going to live close to a university they should expect active student life to be a part of their lives.

A great plus to students that was disposed of a couple years back was the service of beer representatives on campus. For those of you who came after that period a brief explanation is in order.

UMD had beer representatives who would deliver kegs to your home, along with it came beer souvenirs such as beer billboards, clocks, etc. I would personally like to thank the people of Last Chance Liquors, who although are located four to five miles from campus, had to put up a big fuss about it, saying the reps were taking away their business. I've got news for you pal, no one goes into your stinkin' joint anyway. Former beer reps Tom Seidel and Roger Brooks, here's to ya!

Halloween is also a celebration on college campuses. Funny how some professors can even think of having exams on November 1. My all-time classic Halloween was my fourth year when my friends and I dressed up as the "Marvelettes." For you Hodge: Girl, heaven is in recess and we be down!

On a closing note, a few things I will not miss. Waiting in line in Darland Administration Building and those more than adequate prices in Kirby cafe.

Healthy News

Dear Editor,

We noticed that next year's staff does not include a Health Editor. The Health Section provided valuable information on health issues for all students. With health becoming an increasing public concern, we hope the STATESMAN will continue providing this necessary health education.

The Peer Education Program

Sucker Vote

Dear Editor,

This letter is in response to Kenneth Heide's letter in the May 7, 1987 STATESMAN.

We think that Kenneth was right in asking if the election for SA President was actually an election. But, we feel he was asking the wrong person. Andi Santi should not be condemned for being a student representative trying to enhance student life at UMD. The question should be directed to the 7,000 students that did not vote. Perhaps the question should be "Why don't more students care?". Imagine if no students cared, there would be no STATESMAN, no student representation in the decision-making at the university, there would be no clubs or organizations for students to be involved in and there would be no programs for students to enjoy after classes. People like Andi Santi should not be criticized, but instead praised for caring. It's too bad that it takes a sucker to entice people to vote, when it would only take a minute of their time to partake in something that has a great impact on their lives at UMD.

So, perhaps students should take a look at their involvement and address their apathy instead of blaming Andi for something that he has no control over.

This letter is not an attack on Kenneth or other students at UMD, but an invitation to stop and realize that students involvement outside of the involvement outside of classes is just as important, if not more, than their participation in the classroom.

The big move

Dawn Vesovich
Health Editor

School's almost over and soon you'll be going home to live for the summer. After being out on your own for nine months, living with mom and dad again can mean quite a few hassles. You have to live by their rules again and you may feel you get treated like a child.

Living at home again doesn't have to be a continuous conflict. You can learn to get along with your parents again. All it takes is opening the lines of communication with your parents and talking things over.

"I urge students to share themselves with their parents, reflect on how they've changed over the year and discuss how they would like to be treated differently at home," said Kay Slack, lifestyle educator at the Student Health Clinic.

Many times parents don't know who is coming home -- the kid they sent away in September, or a person who has matured and changed in a whole different way.

Slack suggests sharing with your parents any changes in goals that you've had, what your biggest successes have been, your biggest failures, and your biggest fears. By talking to your parents and sharing the new you with them, they will have a better idea of how to react to you.

Another problem with moving back to mom and dad's house is living by their rules and having conflicting ideas on such things as drugs and alcohol, sexual attitudes and expectations for work around the house.

According to Janine A. Watts, associate professor in the Dept. of Home Economics, it is when assumptions are made without talking about them that conflict occurs.

Students returning home and wanting to be treated as "adults" need to act like adults, that is assuming the responsibilities of an adult, not a child. For example, don't expect mom to do your laundry and prepare meals. Do it yourself and offer to do it for them, too.

If you can demonstrate that the old rules don't fit the new you, your parents are apt to be more flexible with the old rules. Most parents realize their kids grow and change and when given a chance, they appreciate it rather than try and hold them back.

One final bit of advice Slack gives to students living at home for the summer is to ask your parents what you need from them -- whether it be acceptance, support or recognition of maturity.

If you take the responsibility and let your parents know you've grown throughout the year, you'll have a healthier, hassle free summer.

Summer Exercise Hints

Do your favorite activities take you outdoors during the summer months? If so, respect the sun, heat and humidity — they can be hazardous to your health, especially in combination.

FACT: The sun is strongest between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. (DST). Even on hazy days, potentially harmful rays reflect off the sand, water, ground, and even buildings. Overexposure may result in the discomfort of sunburn, or the deep, painful blisters and associated misery of sun poisoning.

TIPS: Wear a head cover (preferably a wide-brimmed hat) and proper sunglasses to keep your eyes from burning. White clothing reflects (rather than absorbs) rays. Protect your skin by screening out burning rays with a preparation containing PABA (read the label!), or block out the sun altogether with zinc oxide. Be aware that certain medications (antibiotics, antihistamines, etc.) may cause increased skin susceptibility to sun damage — check with your health care provider. If you notice an unusual reaction after exposure, it's wise to stay out of the sun when it's at peak strength.

FACT: It takes a higher level of conditioning to accomplish in the summer what you can do in more moderate weather. The heart must work harder, muscles are less efficient, and more calories than usual are burned. Heat exhaustion or heat stroke may occur if precautions are not taken.

TIPS: Allow several weeks for your body to get used to working in extreme weather (a process called "acclimatization"). Do not use salt tablets. If your body needs more, you will

"crave" salt; when this occurs, eat salty foods or add salt from the shaker at mealtime. Replace fluids the body loses through exercise by drinking moderate amounts (1-2 cups) of a liquid containing less than 2½% sugar every 15-20 minutes as needed. Drink fruit juices after strenuous exercises — they're good sources of potassium, minerals, and carbohydrates.

A Word About Heat Stroke and Heat Exhaustion:

According to The Sportsmedicine Book (by Dr. Gabe Mirkin and Marshall Hoffman: Little, Brown & Co., 1978), the danger of these problems is considerable if the temperature is above 90 degrees F. and humidity exceeds 90% with little or no wind. Heat exhaustion occurs gradually over several days, due to loss of water; heat stroke results from a sudden uncontrolled rise in body temperature.

The signs of heat exhaustion (fatigue, weakness and malaise) are rather vague, but if it is suspected, drinking large amounts of mineral-rich fluids, such as fruit juices, should help.

Heat stroke frequently occurs in spring and early summer before an individual's body has acclimated to sun and heat. Symptoms of heat stroke are serious and telltale — the sensation of being "on fire", short and labored breathing, dry skin and parched mouth, a throbbing headache, dizziness and blurred vision. Place the victim in shock position (head down, feet elevated) and pour water over the body until s/he is wide awake. Immediate medical attention should be sought.

It is possible to enjoy outdoor summer fun in a health-enhancing, rather than a health-threatening, way. To get the most out of exercise, remember to play it safe!

Summer safety

Are You Allergic to Stings?

More than one million Americans are so allergic to hornet, wasp, yellowjacket or honeybee venom that one sting can be fatal. Here are a few danger signs from the National Safety Council:

- *Itchy, red welts on the skin after a sting, especially those that are located some distance from the site of the sting.
- *A feeling of throat constriction or difficulty breathing after a sting.
- *Sudden nausea, vomiting, stomach pain or fainting after a sting.

If you have had such reactions to a sting, or ever do, consult with a doctor immediately.

Look before you leap

Improper or careless diving techniques can cause serious spinal injuries, including permanent paralysis. To avoid serious diving injuries remember:

- *Learn proper diving techniques before attempting any "head first" dives.
- *Before diving, always check for the depth of the water and the location of underwater stumps and rocks. Never dive head first into shallow or rocky water.
- *Dive only if there are other people in the area who can provide immediate assistance if an accident occurs. Never swim or dive alone!
- *Don't dive or swim while intoxicated with alcohol or other drugs.

No More Rashes!

Poison oak, poison ivy and the rarer poison sumac are all related native American plants. If you're one of the 50 percent of Americans who are allergic to these wild flora, then you don't want to get too chummy with them, natives or not!

If you do make contact, wash immediately with plain water (soap tends to wash off skin oils which increases the chance of a second reaction if you recontact the poison sap). Remember severe cases can be treated with high dose cortisone but most mild cases respond to the old salves: calamine lotion and patience. Few reactions last more than 10 days.

Much Ado

Dave Monte

Ivan Wendte once said, "Success in life is a matter not so much of talent, or opportunity, as of concentration, perseverance, and review."

As we draw to the closing of another school year, it is time to reflect on our collection of great triumphs and painful milestones; for it is doing this that we allow ourselves to truly grow, prosper, and make every unique year a success. In other words, expand on our positive points and learn from our mistakes. We need to draw from all our resources; for success is rarely accomplished by one idea, one incident, or one person. It takes a number of them merging into a perfect whole. It sounds a bit exhausting. However, we all have one big advantage and that is our youth.

Youth is the opportunity to do something and to become someone. What else are we supposed to do with all this energy? I really don't think it was designed for tossing quarters into beer mugs. We are in a period of our lives where limitations and horizons are non-existent. However, we are in a period of our lives that channeling our thoughts and talents into one direction can become confusing at times, and this is why concentration, perseverance and review should always play key roles in our decisions.

Charles Buton had the right idea when he said, "Unless a tree has born blossoms in the spring, you will vainly look for fruit in the fall." Makes sense, doesn't it?

Personally, I never want to fall into the vulgar idea that the mind is a warehouse to be stuffed with "education," but instead prefer to be a bit more selective. I value "people" education as much as "textbook" education. Are you starting to get the picture?

Well, since we are discussing learning and growing by reviewing, let us take a walk down memory lane and what a year this has been.

Why don't we start with politics? We've witnessed a rocky era for the Foreign Affairs Department and we have heard Reagan spending most of his time defending our country's motives. The recent guns-to-Iran scandal added fuel to an already sensitive overseas area, in addition to American hostages still being held in foreign countries. What ever did happen to Terry Waite? Your guess is as good as mine.

And what about religion? This is the year we have seen the life of Oral Roberts being put on hold thanks to a "small" fund raising campaign. Two weeks later, we were jolted with a juicy sex scandal and now most recently, we have seen the rather rapid rise and fall of a presidential candidate due to some "dedicated" journalism. Oh, Mr. Hart, I thought you would know better than to bring her to your house. And he wants to run the country? Yes, it certainly was the year for "bedroom awareness," but we loved it.

On a much more sensitive note, 1987 has brought the exploding outcry and public awareness of the dreaded plague called AIDS. Jokes are no longer funny with this rapidly spreading disease becoming less selective in its victims. Rock Hudson and Liberace fell prey to this nightmare and to put it simply, the American public is scared to hell. It is truly sad that condoms are playing a major role in something as sensitive and intimate as making love. Relationships with one person are on the rise and is probably the only positive fallout of all this chaos.

Speaking of love, it is probably one of the only things that will be around every year. In the past, I have always been baffled how men will talk of miracle, revelation, and inspiration while neglecting love.

Well things are definitely changing and the 'real man' is taking on a new definition. William Shakespeare once wrote that "Love really has nothing to do with wisdom, age, experience, or logic. It is the prevailing breeze in the

In a recent television movie I saw called "Secrets of a Red Bed," a Russian woman asked a group of recruited female Russian students what America's religion is. "Protestant," one student answered.

"No," replied the woman.

A few more guesses, such as Catholic, Jewish, and Lutheran were given.

"No," replied the Russian woman again as she stood up. "America's religion is SEX."

I can't believe how much views on sex have changed in recent years. Think about it. Suddenly the most important word on everyone's mind and lips is SEX, a word that used to be whispered, is now practically shouted.

Americans as a whole are fascinated with sex: we study sex, we advertise sex, we sell sex, we buy sex, and, of course, we have sex. I guess for my generation, the concept of sex is no new idea, but think of our poor, disillusioned parents. Think of how things have changed since they were our age. Can YOU picture mom waltzing into the corner drugstore in her bobby socks, saddle shoes, poodle skirt, and ponytail, and purchasing condoms? I think not.

My brother Mike brought his girlfriend home for Easter. The main question my friends and I had was not if she was cute or sweet or intellectual or if my family would like her. No, no, our question was, where was she going to sleep? My mom got a big kick out of that. I told her EVERYBODY wanted to know what the sleeping arrangements were going to be. I had five people I had to call as soon as I found out.

Actually my mom, dad, and sister Ann were discussing this dilemma earlier.

Mom said, "Of course she'll sleep in the guest room."

I said, "Mom, we don't have a guest room."

She explained that we did now that she moved one of Mike's twin beds into my brother Tom's old room.

I said, "Gee, Mom, seems like an awful lot of work just so they can't be in the same room together. But, I guess that will give them a bit of a challenge."

"KRISTIN!" she yelled, shocked.

I just shrugged. She doesn't know my former roommate was nicknamed Hot Pants.

And what about kids and sex today? It seems that they start everything younger and younger. Gosh, someone even told me about a 10-year-old kid in California who had twins! I think pretty soon toy companies are going to forget about building blocks and paper dolls and start manufacturing toys that fit the times. And the doll I am particularly anxiously awaiting is P.M.S. Barbie.

That's right. She looks all nice and cheerful but when you press the button in her back, suddenly her smile becomes a frown and her brow furrows. Now Barbie is no fun. She has cramps. See Barbie throw things. See Barbie argue with Ken. See Barbie slap Ken for no reason. This Barbie even comes with her own hot water bottle and box of Midol. Just put her to bed for a while. She'll feel better.

Whatever happened to the good old days when the most important thing about a girl was her personality, not whether or not she puts out? Forget this sexual revolution stuff. Things have gone too far. If it doesn't stop, the world is going to be pure chaos. Give me true love and budding romance. Give me tenderness and love at first sight. Give me friendship and courting and an old-fashioned white wedding. Okay, forget it. Just give me a date.

E. Vincent Yaroch

Sigh...Correction, BIG sigh. It's the end of the quarter. End of the year. And for those graduating, the end of an era at UMD.

Of course, the cash you get for your books won't pay for that dream vacation you've been longing to take. Nor will it pay for an atlas that would show you how to get there. Still, you have never seen a line like the line at Cash for Books, especially at the end of the year. The line gets so long, you almost have to set up the sleeping bag, lounge chair, TV, newspaper, and order out pizza to be the first to hear the morning ring of the money till. The sound of quarter rolls being broken like eggs, the shuffle of crisp greenbacks being shuffled in the hands of bright-eyed cashiers; no other breakfast can rouse a weary student quicker.

For many hours students will stand in this line of lines, patiently awaiting the chance to be rid of a "beloved" text forever. When a $30 book yields $6, the all-important decision must then be made: Do you rant and rave over why a book so expensive 10 weeks ago now sells for nickels and dimes? Do you scoff in the general direction of the unblinking cashier, praising the quality and craftsmanship of the text, refusing to lower yourself by selling it? Do you decide to keep the invaluable text as a personal reference for that future evening when you suddenly need to know the skeletal structure of a cat or Freud's theories on oral fixation? Or do you grumble incoherently, saying as you snap up the cash, "Hey, I need the money. I'm out of macaroni and cheese."

Sigh! The end of the year. With it comes nostalgic memories of the recent and not-so-recent past. Looking back at my first year, I'm amazed at how much UMD has changed since 1981. Six years. Don't laugh. I have a double major AND a minor, not to mention an irrational fear of graduating into the real world. Besides, there is no university that I would rather spend a quarter of my life at than UMD, pardon the pun. UMD is constantly changing. And at this, the year's end, a trip down memory lane is in order. Shall we?

Remember the small faculty parking lot directly behind the Marshall Performing Arts Center where the Engineering Building now stands? Do you remember the size of the PE parking lot of days gone by? How about when popcorn sold in Kirby for 25¢? When the Concourse had desks? Do you remember the year of the one-way street beside the Health Science Library parking lot? What about when Cina Hall was Social Science? And Montague was Home Economics? Can you recall the layout of the UMD Bookstore of four years ago? Were you around when the Second Edition was a men's room?

Remember when you could park on Snelling during the school day? When Sidewalk Sam painted the wall mural below the RHDC? When you could check out books and exit on the Health Science side of the library? When the computer center of the library was just a study area? And it wasn't too long ago when getting a hockey ticket was harder than a Calculus final.

Remember cigarette machines on campus? When the dorms allowed alcoholic beverage? When Air Base families lived in Capeharts? How about when tours were given by untrained students who were simply pulled out of the hallways to be guides? Do you recall when the Admin. Information Desk was just a small table and chair? Or the barren Kirby Ballroom before it became Upstairs Kirby.

Of course, some things never change and these too are precious memories. For instance, the lines to pick up financial aid and to pay tuition are still mammoth. The food in the RHDC. The paths on the grass immediately outside Admin. Parking is still a tedious adventure. The colors of the lockers have maintained their lackluster. The vending machines are basically the same. Waiting for a bus outside Kirby has helped many a student get a few chapters read. And who will not miss the three classic paintings in the Kirby Lounge once they graduate, especially the one with the Howard Cosell-type guy staring out a plane window? I know I will.

Congratulations to the graduating class of 1987. Hope you had a great stay at UMD, one full of memories and I hope you take a part of UMD with you as you venture forward in life, figuratively speaking, of course.

Yaroch is a senior psychology and theatre major from Dell Rapids, So. Dak.

Well, Northlanders, this is it. This is the last time you will be entertained by this informative yet SOMEWHAT sarcastic column. I must say I had a fantastic time and appreciate your interest in the column.

Now let's take time out to emphasize those fashion tips discussed throughout the year. Back in December we defined fashion DOs and DON'Ts. Now remember, while in line for your free cheese at the National Guard Armory keep your Gucci purse in the car. However, if you forget and someone asks if it is REAL, 'just say no.'

While discussing men's fashionable hairstyles in the January 29 issue, I came to the conclusion that men are self-conscious about going bald. Those men with receding hairlines, FLAUNT THEM! Chicks die for the Bruce Willis/Mickey Rourke look. Let's try to avoid the 'pull from one side to cover the baldness trick.' Why? Well, because here in the Northland it gets quite windy and a one-side haired man may have trouble keeping his cover.

The results to the question "What would you do if you got up late for class and while you were spraying your hair you ran out of hairspray?" which appeared in a recent issue are tallied.

48 percent would skip their first class and run to Super Value.
23 percent would try spray starch.
18 percent would cope with the guy in class who asked if it was raining out.

8 percent would resort to the baseball hat (even though it would give me a rash)

3 percent would rip off their roommate.

I have just been informed by the U.S. Food, Shelter & Clothing Commission who said it IS possible to clothe a family of three with those enormous bows often seen in women's hair.

In the April 23 issue we discussed how our generation presented our own fashion statement. Well, let's hope next year's fashions do not include large hoop earrings. My ear is still healing from the time a man's arm got caught in my earring.

Your vote for the 1988 'Tammy Bakker Make-Up Award Winner' will be accepted at the UMD STATESMAN office starting September 7, 1988.

Just in, an International Falls woman has been hospitalized for an overdose of make-up. She is said to be in critical condition. The woman is Josephine Bakker, cousin of Tammy Bakker of 'PTL.' Remember ladies, 'Your CHEEKS will be more CHIC if you wouldn't wear so much SHEET.'

Again I would like to thank you for your support, especially those who assisted me while my 'humor hormones' were low. 'Addicted to Style' home videos produced by Vogue magazine will be on the market in mid-June. Take care and enjoy your summer.

1988 PREDICTIONS FOR THOSE WHO PARTICIPATED IN "ADDICTED TO STYLE"

many time-honored themes including the prodigal son and 'what you sow is what you reap.' It also stresses the importance of working hard for a living, and later enjoying the rewards. The play should be entertaining for very small children as well as adults. For more information, call Bob Pietrs at 724-3978.

Also in MPAC will be the Kronoberg Theatre Company, a professional company direct from Sweden. Their production will be John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" and a program based on Swedish folklore. The production is aimed at children, but will also be enjoyed by adults. The performance date is Sun., May 17, at 2 p.m. There is no admission charge.

At this time I'd like to thank everyone here at the STATESMAN for showing me the ropes this past year. Most of all, I'd like to thank Linda Keppers and Michele Nylen for all the help they've given me. Thanks.

The Kronoberg Theatre Company's version of "Of Mice and Men." Portrayed is Gisela Nilsson as Curley's wife and Jerker Fahlstrom as Lenny.

SPRING AND SUMMER—1988

for $19 a day.

International studies on a local budget.

Too many students still think that studying overseas is a wallet-whopping idea. It doesn't need to be. The Center for International Studies at St. Cloud State University has provided affordable international living experiences for more than 2,500 students in the past 13 years. You can join that group, and pay about the same for six months overseas as you do on campus. To make things even easier, payment plans are available.

You can use your financial aid program. You need not be fluent in a foreign language for several of the programs. You can do it!

A travel and study adventure

Experience history and greet the Spring in Europe.

SELECT DENMARK

Celebrate the fourth of July in Denmark as part of a unique friendship bond the Danish have with the American people. Listen to the Queen of Denmark and join the thousands of Americans who visit this beautiful country.

CHOOSE ENGLAND

Attend the Alnwick Fair. Enjoy the numerous opportunities to explore and celebrate the rich English History and tradition.

Application deadline is December 1, 1987. Contact the Center for International Studies, 116 Administrative Services Building, St. Cloud State University, St. Cloud, MN 56301, or call (612) 255-4287.

On Campus

Commencement

Contrary to the Commencement handbook, there will be no senior reception following the Commencement Exercises at the Duluth Arena on May 23. The receptions will resume when Commencement returns to campus.

Students marching in Commencement Exercises are reminded that May 1 is the deadline for returning the pink attendance sheet to Darland Information Desk. Attendance sheets are in the Commencement handbook.

Financial Aid

Applying for financial aid for 1987-88? Been to another post-secondary college, university, or vocational-technical institution prior to UMD?

All students who have EVER attended another college, university, or vocational-technical institution in the United States must submit a Financial Aid Transcript (FAT) to the UMD Office of Student Financial Aid regardless of how long ago you attended or whether or not you received financial aid.

A change in federal financial aid regulations requires that this information be received again by the Office of Student Financial Aid because new questions are being asked on the FAT form that were not asked before.

Blank forms may be obtained from the Darland Administration Building Information Desk.

Reciprocity

The application process for all Minnesota-Wisconsin reciprocity recipients has changed.

All Wisconsin residents who attended an eligible Minnesota school during the 1986-87 academic year and carried and paid for at least one credit will be AUTOMATICALLY RENEWED for the 1987-88 academic year. Students who remain enrolled should not have to reapply during the rest of their academic program.

You should be receiving a letter from the State of Wisconsin Higher Education Aids Board shortly informing you of this change.

If you have any questions, contact the Darland Administration Building Information Desk.

North and South Dakota Residents:

Minnesota-North Dakota and Minnesota-South Dakota reciprocity is automatically renewed each year if you received it this academic year. You do NOT have to reapply each year.

For questions, contact the Darland Administration Building Information Desk.

Pell, State Grants

Students who have not used all three quarters of Pell Grant or Minnesota State Grant eligibility may use their remaining portion of the award to attend summer school. To be eligible, for financial assistance both sessions, you must be registered for a minimum of six credits during First Summer Session 1987.

Because of the complexities of providing financial aid during the summer, each student must complete the Registration and Intent to Enroll Data Form for Summer Session, which is available at the Darland Information Desk. No financial aid checks will be ordered until this form is completed.

If you plan to receive a Minnesota State Grant for the summer sessions, this form must be received at the Office of Student Financial Aid by MONDAY, JUNE 1.

It's Not Too Late

Although the priority deadline for 1987-88 financial aid was April 23, YES, you may still apply for financial aid.

The Family Financial Statement (FFS) must be completed for any financial aid at UMD, including ALL student loans.

FFS packets are available at the Darland Administration Building Information Desk.

Exit Interviews

Are you graduating this spring or summer? Do you have any outstanding loans, such as the National Direct Student Loan, a University Trust Loan, or a Health Professions Loan?

Now is the time to set an appointment for your exit interview with Financial Collections. If you are leaving UMD at the end of Spring Quarter, interviews begin Monday, May 4. Come to the Admissions Office, 184 Darland Administration Building to sign up for an appointment or call 726-7171. An academic hold will be placed on the records of those students who fail to contact Financial Collections prior to departing UMD.

Medical School students should contact their Student Affairs' Office, 109 Med, regarding their appointment time.

If you are graduating or leaving UMD during the summer, set an appointment near the time of your departure.

GSL Exits

Are you graduating this spring or summer? Or are you leaving UMD? DO YOU HAVE ANY GUARANTEED STUDENT LOANS?

Make plans now to attend an exit interview for your Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL) on Tues., May 12 or Thurs., May 14, at 2 p.m., in Chem. 200.

New federal financial aid regulations require that all students departing UMD must have an exit interview.

Information you must bring to the exit interview include 1) the amount of each GSL loan, 2) the interest rate for each loan, and 3) the grace period for your loans, and 4) the total amount of all your GSLs.

To obtain this information: 1) gather your promissory notes which were issued when you obtained the loan, or 2) contact your lender. The UMD Office of Student Financial Aid has very limited information regarding individual students' GSLs.

Meetings

Archaeological Society

The Northern lakes Archaeological Society invites the public to its meeting on Monday, May 18, at 7 p.m. in the Fairlawn Museum, Superior, for a film on very early American archaeological sites. Elaine Redepinning will also be honored for her work and recent award. Election of officers will occur in the regular meeting at 6:30 p.m.

Summer Addresses

The Registrar's Office needs a reliable summer address for all students so that they may mail the following information this summer:

- 1) the annual audit transcript;
- 2) the registration status notice telling students when to cancel-add in August or when to register if you do not register in May, and
- 3) the Fall Quarter fee statement showing the costs for tuition and fees and the due date for payment.

Please provide your summer address when you register this month. If you do not register in May, complete a change of address form which is available at Window 7 or the Information Desk, First Floor of Darland Administration Building.

ATTENTION CAPEHART RESIDENTS - Many of your addresses are incomplete and mail cannot be delivered. Correct your address now.

Do not delay! Help your mail get to you. Have your address changed today.

Drinking Problem

The 1987 track season was a war.

For now the deafening sounds of rocket launchers and the methodic rat-tat-tat of submachine guns have all but subsided, though it was only a few short days ago that the battle was at its height, raging intensely and seemingly without end.

It was the UMD track team's Battle of Bull run, the Northern Intercollegiate and Northern Sun Conference meets; the ultimate test in athletic competition.

In the middle of all of it, stood a gallant and swashbuckling Eleanor Rynda in all her glory. Like a weathered war general the proud commander stood tall, barking commands to her troops as the brisk cool wind tousled her auburn hair.

When it was all over, tattered General Lee-like Rynda met her Appomattox, surrendering both championship trophies to a jubilant Elliot Kramsky, officer-in-command of the Moorhead army.

Meanwhile, on a small farm in Kansas, a young boy was growing up...but that's another story for another day.

What was previously thought would be a battle of the decade between UMD and Moorhead for the men's team title, turned out to be every man for himself as MSU bludgeoned the rest of the six-team field.

After coming within 28 points during the NIC indoor fight, the 'Dogs fell to a distant second outdoors as the Dragons won their sixth consecutive title with 236 points to UMD's 145.

Although Rynda's subjects failed to withstand the repeated volleys Moorhead fired, her captains did pull through with some individual victories.

Senior captain Doug Nelson notched his first outdoor pole vault title, soaring 15 feet 7 3/4 inches. He surpassed the NAIA national qualifying mark but fell short of the NCAA mark by five inches.

"I just got on my 15 foot 180-pound pole and I've only vaulted five times with it," Nelson said. "I think I can hit 17 feet with a little more practice."

Nelson will be competing in two "last chance" meets in LaCrosse and Northfield this weekend in an attempt to qualify for nationals.

Another captain, senior Tim Magnuson, fought the elements and posted a big win in the 10,000 meter run. His time of 32:26 was more than a minute faster than his next competitor. Magnuson also finished fourth in the 5,000 and sixth in the 1,500 meters.

"I'm satisfied with my season," a now-retired Magnuson said. "I am most pleased about cross country (last fall) and the 10K last weekend."

Magnuson, whose name is synonymous with running, may best be remembered for his heroic but unsuccessful attempt to douse his idol Coach Rynda with a bucket of water following the meet when she was steaming from the heat.

Assistant Coach Mike Hall's protege Steve Tekippe, a Maple, Wisc. junior and the epitome of hard work and dedication, overcame all obstacles en route to a big victory in the 400 meters.

"I came into the last curve and I saw someone's hand coming up out of the corner of my eye," Tekippe explained. "After that I sprinted for all I was worth."

Tekippe surged to a 49.7 win, beating the next finisher by a full half second.

Tekippe teamed with Nelson, Tom Ruud and Dave Klassen for a 4x100 meter relay victory, edging an over-rated Moorhead relay team by a grasshopper's antennae.

The NIC's Most Valuable Player, Chris Janoweic of UMD, finished in first as well in doubles. As a whole the team finished in first place with the closest place in singles, and with the help of teammate Bill Marker, finished equally team 18 points away.

NIC champs go national

Brad Haynes
Staff Writer

The UMD men's tennis team followed up a 22-1 regular season by taking their sixth straight NIC Conference Title.

MEN'S TENNIS

Two other honors earned this past weekend by the 'Dogs were Tournament MVP Chris Janoweic and Coach of the Year went to Don "Doc" Roach. The District 13 tournament was dominated by the 'Dogs as they took the semifinals in singles and the finals in doubles. No UMD singles or doubles player lost to anyone from another team. Final score: UMD 23, Moorhead 5, Winona 4 and Morris 3. That's domination.

Tom Aney and Wells Patten upset Bill Marker and Janoweic 4-6, 7-5 and 6-4 to take the top in doubles. Tim Turnquist beat Marker to play Janoweic who beat Aney for the top singles slot. Unfortunately, Turnquist sprained an ankle in the match and lost by default.

The only tournament left is the big one in Kansas City which will start Monday. Roach hopes it will go better than last year. "The national tournament is tough because it's dominated by foreign players. Some of these guys who go to school in the South have played in the Davis Cup for their countries. Hopefully we'll win a few matches. The main thing is to do better than last year."

"The draw is very important. With a halfway decent draw we could do okay. The main thing is that we know what is going on down there from last year," Roach said.

Roach is proud of this year's performance of the team. "We beat some good teams this year. We only lost to Gustavus and they are rated in the top eight nationally (NCAA Division III). We had a real good year."

Having snowbanks around for half the year may make recruiting tennis players hard, but Roach has a solid strategy. "I try to get one player a year that I know will do good for us and try to keep them here for all four years. This makes a good base and I try to build around them."

How does next year look? Roach said. "It will be tough to lose Marker, he's an excellent doubles player and solid in singles. Our freshmen played really well this year (Turnquist, Arnold and Weglinski) and that will help a lot. We're looking at another good season next year."

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Conference (NSC) tournament last weekend at the Lilydale Racquet Club in St. Paul.

The team, as a whole, placed second out of seven teams; four UMD singles players and two UMD doubles teams made it to the final round at third through sixth singles, second doubles and third doubles. Only one UMD doubles team won their championship match, however; sophomore Val Aney and freshman Tierney Bartell beat Southwest State University's Carolina Gomez and Jill Reiter at second doubles 6-4, 6-4.

"Everybody was in their match from beginning to end," stated coach Brad Beck. "No one got blown away."

Southwest State University won the conference tournament with 52 total team points over UMD's second place team total of 32 points. Individually, Southwest State took eight of nine championships. The remaining team totals are Moorhead State University in third place with 18 points, Winona State University with 17 points in fourth place, Northern State University in fifth place with 12 points, the University of Minnesota-Morris with six points in sixth place, and Bemidji State University in last place with four points.

UMD had four of six singles players in the championship round. At number three singles, Bartell lost to Southwest State's Michelle Olson by a score of 4-6, 2-6; while Southwest State's Jill Reiter beat Aney 6-4, 6-1 at number four singles. At number five singles, sophomore Deb Nielsen lost to Southwest State's Holly Logan in three sets by a score of 6-2, 3-6, 3-6 and freshman Wendy Elmes lost to Southwest State's Michelle McLean 1-6, 4-6 at number six singles.

In doubles play, UMD had two of three teams in the final round. At number two doubles, Aney and Bartell beat Southwest State's Gomez and Reiter 6-4, 6-4; while Nielsen and Missy Fraki lost to Southwest State's Logan and McLean at number three doubles by a score of 3-6, 1-6.

Freshman Wendy Elmes had a team-leading .750 winning-percentage with a record of 12 wins and four losses at number six singles; she is a first-year player and should be a prime contender again next year.

Sophomore Steph Carlson was 12-7 at number two singles, while freshman Bartell had a 12-6 record at number three singles. At number four singles, sophomore Aney rebounded from a slow start to a record 10-9, while Dawn Hable played number one singles this season after playing number five singles last season and she ended up at 4-14.

In doubles action, Carlson and Hable played together at number one doubles for the majority of the season and had a .579 winning-percentage with 11-8. At number two doubles, conference champions Aney and Bartell won nine and lost six for an overall team-leading .600 winning-

Team captain Renee Fluegge shows a look of disappointment as the Lady Bulldogs lose their 10th game of the season and are out of the District 13 playoffs. At her side is Coach Bill Haller saying, "There's always next year."

SOFTBALL

Lady Bulldogs are steering straight into 1988 with high hopes.

After finishing with a record of 35-10 overall and capturing the conference title at 12-0 the Lady Bulldogs' future is looking up. The fact is that the 1987 team consisted of only three juniors, six sophomores, and eight freshmen. Losing no one to graduation the team will return intact in 1988.

"The team has accomplished much more than the coaching staff expected," said fifth-year coach Bill Haller. "With so many new players, it was difficult to forecast a month ago how we'd do.

"But they have played well and come together as a team. To go unbeaten in 12 conference games is a tribute to them and probably a record that will stand a long time," said Haller.

The 1987 Lady Bulldogs went 12-0 in the conference and also remained undefeated on their new home field at 10-0.

Last weekend the Lady Bulldogs entered the District 13 tournament and were seeded at the No. 1 position above Concordia, Winona and Southwest State.

The opening day of competition the Bulldogs captured two wins by defeating Southwest State 7-2 in the first game. The team went on to beat Concordia in their second game 6-3 as underclassmen Becky Williams, Dana Hill and Ann Patet tripled. Patet also tripled the first game.

Concordia went on to win the championship at the NAIA tournament by defeating UMD 2-1 and 3-1.

Although the defeat broke the dreams the young team had going into the playoffs with the District 14 champs, five Bulldogs placed on the All-District First Team: Renee Fluegge, Kelli Heid, Patet, and Devie Erickson and three on the Second Team: Kelli Ritzer, Paula Sweeney and Dana Hill.

That's almost half the team.

Summer Housing at UMD

Reservation requests for the 1987 summer rental program for on campus apartments and residence hall rooms are being accepted at 189 Lake Superior Hall. The summer rental program will begin on June 1, and end August 24, 1987.

Maximum occupancy per apartment is four individuals. Single and double occupancy resident hall rooms will also be available for rental.

Apartments will be rented on a unit basis only, in which ONE INDIVIDUAL WILL BE THE LEASEHOLDER. The leaseholder will be responsible for obtaining roommates and responsible for paying rent.

Reservation request forms and rate sheets may be obtained at 189 Lake Superior Hall. An advance payment ($100 per apartment or $50 per residence hall space) must accompany the completed request form.

with three freshmen qualifying. With so many accomplishments already named there is still one more that requires attention. Having a new home field located on Junction Avenue the Bulldogs opened the first home game with two victories April 21 against Winona State and finished the season with a perfect record on the field at 10-1.

With the team entering the season trying to improve on a 22-14 overall record from last year, they not only improved but surpassed the record 35-10.

The team's future looks like it's staring straight into the sun -- let's hope they can hit and catch the ball as well as they did in the '87 season.

Course on Relativity

The College of Science and Engineering will offer the sophomore level three-credit Honors course Physics 3025: Space and Time in Relativity at 11 a.m. MWF (call number 547953) taught by Thomas Jordan in the fall. The course does not require college level mathematics or physics and is approved for liberal education, Category 2. In addition to special relativity, the course will focus on Einstein's life and the historical context of his work.

Any student who participated in a freshman CLA or CSE honors seminar may obtain an override form from the Physics Office, 371 MWAH. Others may request an override from the instructor. Enrollment is limited to 15.

Rec Sports

Schach's Fireside Chat

Steven T. Schach

From Dick Haney - Director of Rec Sports. Rec Sports has experienced a very exciting, sometimes frustrating, academic year in 1986-87. After 10-plus years of planning, the construction of the new facilities got under way, and that's exciting! Yet, as with any major remodeling, there is frustration trying to carry-on with programs as walls fall around us. Our staff has been very close this year, several sharing office space, but the view looks good for next year and that carries us through.

Next fall, we will occupy our new office complex on the south side of the P.E. Building. That area, which will provide room for the staff to be together for the first time, will assist greatly with program coordination and staff awareness.

Planned completion of the facilities is early fall, with the ice facility in operation by October 1. A new era will begin for Recreational Sports as we program sports in some of the finest, most flexible, college sport facilities in the upper Midwest.

Rec Sports is planning to expand fitness programs and tie them together, cooperatively, with the Student Health Clinic and the Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation. The new weight room for recreation plus the state-of-the-art equipment and laboratories for exercise, physiology and human performance will allow for innovative program development.

The multi-purpose ice facility will allow for expansion and improvement around Rec Sports this year. Whining aside, the year was, all in all, a good one.

The students and staff, to their credit, worked well together and were generally understanding in putting up with the inconvenience of construction. Though the construction has put a damper on events this year, the long-term gains will more than compensate for it (except for graduating seniors).

We look forward to serving you better next year with the advantage of improved facilities.

Katie Peterson - Intramural Supervisor

As a first-year supervisor, my experiences with Rec Sports have been pretty darn good! It's been a place where I've met a ton of people. I'm really looking forward to next year with the new facilities -- believe it or not an indoor ice rink. Sorry no more "Mudball" (but, it was fun, wasn't it?). Thanks to everyone who participated (sacrificing their bodies) and to everyone else who made the program go. I'm looking forward to returning for a couple more years.

John Kessler - Intramural Director

This was a very exciting year for me. Coming back to UMD and to Rec Sports after five years away from here was both a challenge and an action of great hesitation.

In the late '70s, early '80s, we were building at Rec Sports. That is, we were trying to build a recreation program that served this campus community. We also made due with the facilities that we had at the time -- not far from what we did this year with construction of the new ones. The real change in what we have today that we didn't have five years ago is lack of enthusiasm for team oriented sports in intramurals.

This year I was very pleased at the turnout for intramural team sports. However, I was very disappointed with the turnout for individualized tournaments and sports, such as racquetball, basketball free throw, track and field meet, Turkey Trot cross country race, 3 on 3 basketball and the Winter Carnival Ski Races.

The difference I believe could go with the changing attitudes of students. It seems that group social activities are on the upswing and that it's pretty hard for an individual to risk going out on a limb to compete by himself. This attitude is one that we at Rec Sports will make an effort to change next year.

The officiating level has changed also at Rec Sports. There was a time when Dick Haney had to go and pull a kid out of the hallway to officiate an intramural game. It's totally opposite now. We have students who really want to learn how to be officials applying each quarter. It brings quality people to our department who are adding their own style and enthusiasm to the program.

I alluded to being hesitant earlier in the article. Well, yes, I was very hesitant about coming back to UMD. The main reason was that I didn't know if I had a feel for what the students here at UMD wanted in a recreation program anymore. After slowly getting my feet wet last fall, I think that I've made the transition. The main idea that I stayed with all year long was to bring consistency and stability to the intramural program. I felt that I was consistent with my interpretation of policies and rules. I know that my enforcement of these to those of you who didn't follow them made for some disagreement, but it made this program stable. Next year, I'm looking for great things to happen in the program.

I would like to thank the UMD campus community for participating in Rec Sports this year and for those of you who didn't partake, I would like to invite you to do so next year.

From Anne Schneider - Soon-to-be-graduating I.M. supervisor

How can I summarize my experiences with Rec Sports in one paragraph?

Because of my job, this year been significantly different than all my other years at UMD. Rec Sports has kept me very busy (thank God for overtime pay), has introduced me to thousands of new people, has made the word "scheduling" to mean "headache," and has also shown me a really great time.

Working behind the scenes, I've learned how to make everything work out, how to stomach bloody knees and broken bones, and how to make the best out of the worst situations.

I'll never forget my experiences nor the great people I've worked with. Rec Sports is a fantastic organization which allows everyone to participate. It's been a crazy year, and I'd do it again in a minute. I want to wish all the supervisors good luck! (And enjoy your new office.)

Just one last question: What in the heck do those teams smoke in order to come up with such funny, weird, crazy, crude, obnoxious names? (And then to be too embarrassed to claim them at the captains' meeting.)

Good game Pure Style, in beating the Hooligans in double overtime. Everybody on both teams played well except Billy Marker.

And thanks to my G405 roommates and Kim Meyer, Dick Haney, John Kessler, Shawn Tresselt, Mark Almquist, Larry Radloff, Mom, Dad, Super Value, Protect-a-Check, and God for letting me live when I thought I was dead. See you next year.

of ice sports with much needed space in the fall and spring for other activities when the ice is not installed. The long sought ice facility on campus will eliminate the broomball shivers and bring intramural ice hockey on campus. Recreational skating, curling, and other ice sports are planned program additions. Joggers on the track suspended above the ice area will be able to observe the activities going on below.

Ten and one-half years ago two major goals were set for Recreational Sports: 1) to provide a comprehensive program of sport and fitness, and 2) to have adequate facilities to meet the needs and interests in sport for a college in a northern climate. Accomplishment of these goals is within sight. That is promising for those who will be here in the future years and exciting for those who have played a role in reaching for the goals.

Matt Olson - Intramural Supervisor

"What? The year is over? NO WAY!!" "I can't believe that call!" "Are you blind?" These are just a few of the comments that were commonly heard

WHY
USE DRUGS?

Memories from 8A

land called youth and love; true love, is a religion." I certainly find that very true.

Speaking of new loves, we have all grown to love the "boy next door" -- Bill Cosby, Tom Cruise and Michael J. Fox. They are making sure such evils (like the rock group KISS) will permanently rest in peace. With or without makeup. And that goes for you, too, Mr. David Lee Roth. He had a much better year in 1984.

Moonlighting and Miami Vice have stayed healthy and we all went to see Platoon -- an explicit film depicting the horrors of Vietnam. That wasn't the only blockbuster of the year.

Springsteen's live album came on like a classic street machine; stylish, powerful, and built to last. 1987 brought a touch of class with Dexter Gordon displaying an intoxicating flair on his saxophone and U2, Bon Jovi and Janet Jackson were also success stories.

On a more local note, we can't forget about UMD's Theatre Department making headline news with their performance of "Homesteaders" in Washington, D.C.

Now there is a fashionable city and now that we are on fashion, 1987 has brought a new edge to this industry.

Guys are sporting thin ties and suspenders, with short hair and mousse; the look is red hot. The ladies can be found in Chinese flats, Victorian boots, and plenty of jewelry. The conservative look is coming on strong.

But on a less conservative thought, what do you think about Mary Beth Whitehead and Liz Stern squaring off over Baby M? Meanwhile, amidst all the controversy, a N.J. judge made a difficult decision on the fate and future of surrogate motherhood. It will be interesting to see what happens in 1990. Whitehead lost, but has vowed to get revenge.

And if revenge is as sweet as rumored to be, then chalk one up for Dennis Connor who won the America's Cup and gave the United States a new wind of ego. Thank God, someone had to.

We have all had a hectic year and hopefully we all gained from it. But still isn't it nice how some things don't change? After moving here from Manhattan, I found the inevitable changing of the seasons breathtaking. There were also many nights that standing on the shore of Lake Superior, with its magnitude, unpredictability, and beauty in front of me, would make the most hectic days peaceful again.

I have realized, that in comparison to nature, some of life's biggest problems are really quite small, and that friends, family, and school, and life in general, can actually be a lot of fun.

To me, 1987 will be the year that I spent in Duluth, Minn., and although many misunderstood me, I leave having grown from this experience. I took the time to understand Duluth, and as we wind down yet another year, I urge everyone to also take advantage of the recourses under our noses and to make every year a growing year. That means work and dedication -- and it isn't always easy.

I found a quote scribbled in pencil at the back of a book that sums it all up. "From above we can hear the crowd growling and grumbling and taking it easy."

Oh well, just another thought. Thank you, Duluth.

Monte is a junior marketing major from Newark, N.J.

The over 300 partiers that attended KPB's first Music Fest weren't disappointed. According to Davin Brandt, concert chair, "Those who were there had a great time, and those that weren't, really missed out." Hopefully, according to KPB, those that missed this one will get another chance next year.

native, claimed impressive second place finished in the 100 and 200 meter dashes while vaulter Nelson earned some money by finishing fourth in the 100 meters.

Sheldon Johnson, a hurdler from Two Harbors, finished third in the 100 meter high hurdles as Peter Thomsen pulled off third in the pole vault.

The men's 4x400 meter relay set a new school record of 3:25.07 as they finished third in the event. Nelson, Klassen, Ruud, and Tekippe were responsible for that effort.

Spike Edberg surprised himself with his second place in the shot put while Ed Nowak took the second spot in the high jump.

Nick Madison and Thomsen also claimed thirds in the 10,000 and high jump, respectively.

In the women's meet it was also Moorhead who won the team title racking 238 points. The UMD Bulldogs scored 98 for third place.

The women's competition was highlighted by junior captain Lynn Stottler's victory in the 1,500 meters. In an all-out battle to the finish, Stottler gunned down Moorhead State's Jackie Abers in the final 50 meters.

Abers got revenge in the 800 meters, however, as she edged Stottler for first by a second.

Junior ace Barb Sommer finished third in the discus throwing 124'5", while sophomore Amee Koebnick captured third in the 100 meters (13.2).

Koebnick rebounded in the 200 meters with a 26.93 percentage, good for second.

The big story though was Joan Weinzierl. The Shakopee sophomore sensation turned in a mammoth performance in the 400 hurdles. She ran an unheard of 1:05.1, winning the event she has been merciless in all season. Jackie Esteb finished second in 1:07.6, also noteworthy.

And so the UMD track saga continues. The Bulldog track squads continue to have outstanding individual performers but can't seem to get the numbers enough to make a run at a quickly-deteriorating Moorhead team.

At last report, no intent-letters had been signed, thus another fruitless recruiting season. The big questions next year are: Will UMD run in the Drake Relays, who will be the coaches' choice now that both Nelson and Magnuson are gone, and finally, will Rynda's sidekick Mike Hall return as the popular PR man he once was or will Mike Wedward replace him?

Finish from 17A

percentage in doubles competition.

"They played well," said Coach Beck. "They certainly peaked at the right time."

The team finished the 1987 with a 10-7 overall record, while they went 6-1 in conference play. Being that this year's team consisted of purely freshmen and sophomores and was coached by first-year coach Beck, they had a very good season. If everyone practices hard during the off-season, they should be a contender, and maybe even the conference champion, next season.

Brian "the worm" Harley Hartman, Lisa "Harv Mama" Harvieux, Lisa "no nickname" Henrikson, Andrea Jensen, Katie Marie Judd, Thomas "Licker" Lickteig, Tom Tom Meier Meier, Philip T. Ruble, Mike "Hodge" Rohweder, Brett Salo, Mike "Bomber" Spragg, and last and most least Kris "Wegleitner" Wegleitner.

This is it -- the last Thursday personal. Next Saturday we will be accepting a symbol, a mere sheet of paper, that represents all our achievements over the last five years. But more importantly, that diploma has enabled us to gather together and share a hell of a good time!

UMD Bowldogs, "The Lifers," Softball Tourney at Leech Lake, Knocked down champagne fountains, Tropicana Cruiser, "Hunta, pass the Bunta" Booze Bus to the Iron Range, drive-in movies, Alumni Council, Goldfinger, Hot Tubs, Chester Bowl - Super Bowl - Toilet Bowl, North Shore drives, $2 please, Bob's motel in Thunder Bay, Our Group of Friends - O.G.O.F., the deli the deli the deli, crisis number, Vail, dancing on the bar, Landlords and tenants, Capeharts, "Where's my purse," Marvelettes, Progressive Party No. 1, 2, 3, Murphy's, 15th & 4th - 15th & 2nd - 21st & 4th - 19th & 8th - Eel pout, Breezy Point, Huey Lewis Dire Straits and Talking Heads.

But the good times would never have been without the good people and as that cop once said, "You can't pick your relatives but you can pick your friends!" and I think I've done a pretty good job in doing so.

TO PHIL: MY REGAL KING -

We have had some pretty good times together and some we would rather live without -- like the time we discovered that your parents came home a day early: "Philllll, what is that on the counter?" or at the Canadian Border: "Would you like to search my purse?" or living with Griff, or planning parties and banquets (oh how I love to get our goat!) or sipping the vodka on New Year's morn. But more importantly I remember the good times: like after John Koch's B-day party when you threw up all over my kitchen table and then "made out" with Dana, or listening to you talk about your fun times at KBJR; I also remember the times when you truly listened to me especially the time outside of 4th Street -- I'm serious when I say you'll be the Godfather to my first child!

Signed: Rebecca the Pest and Loving Every Minute of It.

TO: TOM TOM MEIER MEIER -

Be a sweet and vote for Tweet! That was a long time ago. We are old now. And now that I'm old "The smile has left my eyes." You're the only one I know who would make someone pay them back a $1 in a Monopoly game three hours later. I'm glad you finally got rid of that white beast. It started going down hill at Indianhead. I know I lost my Blue Aquanin's Sweatshirt in the trunk: That or you stole it since you loved it so much. Signed: Tweet Tweet-n-Tweet Tweet-n-Yaahh

TO KATIE AND ANDIE: MY ROOMIES -

Whose ice chips are on the floor? Who waterlogged the bathroom? Who drank my last pop? Why does it look like we are having a popcorn feed on the floor? Has anyone seen Katie's keys? Has anyone seen the 4 black brushes, the two blue brushes, the brown brush, the purple comb? Andie do you mind if I wear...? Who wrote that dirty note? Who left the stereo on? Who turned the heat up? Who was supposed to check the oil? Are we out of fuel again? Who threw up out the upstairs window??? Signed: I didn't take it, lose it, do it, & it's not my turn to do the dishes!

TO HODGE: MY FIX IT MAN -

I was going to start out with the time after the Booze Cruise but I know how much you hate that plus I promised I'd never mention it again. So instead I'll start with our trip to Canada. Most definitely the best road trip in college. Staying at Bob's (sleezy) motel. We've had our share of Sloppy Sue's together. I know I had way more than my share the day of the fair and sitting at the Viking. The shoppers at IGA had to watch their step. I wonder if your brother Barry still has claw marks on his arms from that plane ride to the Cities. "Nice meeting you" - "Listen there is a great deal on a house down in Minneapolis. We could buy it, fix it up, and rent it to all of our friends." Being a landlord wasn't always easy and I'm glad we could share the troubled times together but we learned a lot - like never do it in college! Our friendship has taken some weird twists this year and I apologize. We've had our share of ups and downs - unfortunately I was always down. Yes I admit you're stronger and superior in that way ONLY. I still can't believe that scene at Grandma's - another humiliating experience. 'Ma'am you are going to have to leave.' I'm going to miss you a WHOLE BUNCH next year even though I think you are a creep and a jerk and a geek. Signed: It was me and that's all I have to say.

HARV MAMA -

What's 14 down, has 13 letters and the clue is "bare butts for birthdays"? It's CHIPPIN' DULUTH. Too bad they haven't made another appearance! What's 10 across and has 60 letters and the clue is the worst presentation we've ever made in college? It's The Depository Institution Deregulation Monetary Control Act of 1980. What a bore - what a flop - Nothing like impressing your classmates. I guess we had a good excuse when we wrote it! Thanks for telling me about D.C. he has helped me more than you could ever imagine. Signed: Garn - St. Germaine's were jerks!

TO HARLEY: MY CO-EXECUTIVE -

You make me laugh. You always have a witty thing to say and a smile on your face. Except you didn't have a smile on your face when you backed my car up over the sidewalk in Nebraska or you weren't smiling when I didn't mail that envelope. Our first Spring Break together - Vail "But he is my guest - I AM TOM TWEETON - You have to serve him" or our second one to Fort Lauderdale - "Dad, you remember Schoony, I mean, Harley -- no we haven't been drinking!" - "Did you know Ann Tweeton is having a party tonight?" Real smooth Harley, Real Smooth! - "Please Harley, I know it is 3 a.m. but I have to talk" - you've done so many swell things for me and been such a great pal. I had a great time in SA with you this year even though we did get a little carried away at the banquet - At least we did a better job at the Dating Game. I still owe you for last year's year end STATESMAN; I haven't forgotten! Brian, I AM sorry you aren't going through ceremonies with us but you will be with us up there spiritually. Plus it gives us all another reason to get together next whenever to see you go through. Keep the green sweater (since I'll never see it anyway) for an early graduation present. Signed: The Pidgeon

TO: LISA H -

No guts, no glory! Ah - I've had plenty of guts this year but sure haven't seen any glory - well maybe a little. Yes Lis, I'm demanding as the Bemidji '84 weekend proved. Let's "double date" w/Steve and what's his name from Rochester. That night was a bore - Thank you so much for having us all up to Walker. I really got to know the people I love the most at those bashes and again I thank you! I hope you can control your drinking of champagne at graduation because I can only laugh as hard as I did at the Christmas party once a year. have you sent any cards to Matt Jacobsen (or his kids) lately? Let's hope not. Signed: I Hate Fuschla Nails

TO WEGLEITNER: THE LAST SURVIVING 6-NORTHERNER -

We started together and we are ending together. Where has the time gone...For starters we spent a lot of commuting time in your jeep going to Superior - and in the Lincoln (or what's left of it). I am sorry Kriss but I was in love - "Yes officer she's going to live - ANN DON'T MOVE DON'T TALK STAY IN THE CAR" - "But Kris I'm about to freeze to death!" How humiliating passing out at the Superior Cop Shop - We threw the best parties at UMD: 15th and 4th Roll out the carpets, duct tape the house, and roll in $800! The mess and the fights were worth it. I'll never forget the look on Sue's face when I threw the bananas and the purse across the kitchen. Speaking of tempers "I'm M-O-V-I-N-G O-U-T moving out." I'm glad you can spell when you're drunk. Our midnight cig talks, I blame you for my addiction! Kris we've been through a lot together. Learning about ourselves is not always easy but its necessary to grow. I've learned a lot from you and I'll cherish our friendship forever. Signed: "Dad, I'm dropping out of college and moving to California."

LICKTEIG - ME GUSTAI

Crisis no. 7987: "Oh no Tom, I left my purse at Capeharts. It will only take a second to turn around and get it. I can't go to the Cities without my purse." That's what I always liked about you Tom, your sensitivity. Merry New Year. Crisis no. 8254: "Does everyone have their seat belt on? Tom, please drive safe. it's the 4th of July and we don't want to get in an accident." There were fireworks in my eyes when we went over the embankment. Talk about being between a rock and a hard place. Crisis no. 10215. My mom is bringing those clicky things to graduation. You know - the ones from St. Ed's and if you and your brothers make fun I'll be sooooo embarrassed. My clothes still smell like beer from your birthday (and no Phil, I'm not ashamed of myself). Signed: Leave me alone I'm having a crisis.

TO ROB SIMON - THE NICEST GUY IN THE WHOLE WORLD.

You are genuinely the sweetest and most sincere (not to mention good looking) person I HAVE MET in college. I have never met anyone who would go to such great lengths to help others out as you do. I better stop before your head gets as big as your muscles. Unfortunately as the 15th & 4th proved it can get you into trouble! I remember another time you were just helping out a friend and it turned into a nightmare. Let's see we had a trailer behind my car, we were "buzzed," it was foggy, it was sleeting, it was muddy, my wiper fluid didn't work, my fog lights didn't work, the trailer was moving side to side, we ran over a deer and, the transmission broke down. All just to help out a friend! Rob, if caring for others was "measured in dollars, you'd be the richest guy I knew. Signed: Do you have any money I can borrow, I'm broke?!

BELG AND PHIL - I'm going to miss living next door to you next year. Who is going to keep you in line brother?... Brock, Cahoot, Madge - "Man, you guys are always wasted." "Shut-up Phil." Brock, I'm surprised the Econ. Dept. let us take any classes together cuz we couldn't control our laughter. But who cares because "we're cool." Just call me Maureen, Madge, I'll never forget that letter you wrote me. I still have it. Buy any Ex-Lax lately?...Pam Salo, you chumped Gina and I out of 4 months rent and a $95 service charge. We are still paying for it. Grow up...To my S.A. Pals - I've really enjoyed working with and getting to know you - I'll have those variance reports at the next Congress meeting...Steve, Bruce, Ron, Andy, Amy, Lisa - I'll really miss you!...To all my Calc professors - I just needed a D.

That's it - five great years wrapped up - Wisconsin Dells for this O.G.O.F. bash - Our Group of Friends - you're great but you know that already. I'm really proud of all your individual accomplishments and achievements. I couldn't have picked better people to cry with, party with, study with, fight with, wrestle with, laugh and laugh and laugh with - Our Group of Friends. I love you.

ANN E. TWEETON alias "TWEET"

PJF - Hope you have a great summer! Take care and maybe some fine day we'll meet again. I will remember you always. Dave.

VICKY, Hicky, Sicky Krisserman: Hope you had a "memorable" 20th birthday. I NEVER saw you so relaxed before. I wish I could have had a PIECE though. (I can't believe I just said that). Love, Kev.

STONE - I'll NEVER forget the fun we have had. Remember IT, Wilma, and having sex in the living room; how disgusting; and please remember me!

HAVE a great summer! Main Street Store, Bulldog Shop & Second Edition.

MFV - I really want to thank you for all the great times we've spent together. I care about you a lot and I'll miss you very much. Please try and behave yourself. Keep in touch. KKY

THANKS to everyone on the STATESMAN staff for making it a great year for me! I had fun working with all of you. Yes, even you Jans! I'll miss you guys! Kim PAM, Teresa, Kay: Thanks for being great roommates and for putting up with my early mornings and bitchy moods. Kari.

This 11 Quad romance has been the undercover story of the year, but now it's time to bring it out in the open. The truth will (and DID) come out in the end. 1 plus 1 equals 1.

TO ONE HOT WOMAN, an RA at Oakland B's Diann Lynn Marriott. This is your favorite resident speaking of your finest points, with your night cream oh so white and your curls oh so very tight, what a year it's been. Next year will bring us to the reign of Mother Junctions and then we will see whose underwear gets hung out to dry.

TO THE MEN that matter in 314B and others who matter too. Thanks for the interesting year. Your parties were irresistible. Especially Dean's birthday. Depends for Dean. You've got such a sweet ass (and third nostril). Jeff it was real, it was fun but it wasn't real fun. Ty, don't buy your music at Target, shop at SA Records. Comrade Nate, we commies must unite! Let's get Dean laid at his party this summer in Duluth for Grandma's Marathon. Just one of the guys, Susan.

JEFF B. To the football jock, It's been quite the experience living next to you this quarter. Too bad you don't know how to treat friends very well. W.S.

T.M. - Golfing is your game, and that really is a shame; Because I've got another plan, to make you my only man. N.D.N.

TRACY & HEATHER - Thanks for making my last year here a great one! We've had a lot of great times. Remember pumpkins in the sweaters, hysterical laughing, truth or dare, Kool-aid and vodka, Jeff serenading outside, bringing Tracy to the emergency room and totally embarrassing her, and best of all, the good advice and support I've gotten from the two of you. I'll miss you! Love - Crashbaby

"HOW low can you go!" 2nd annual Tropical Nite at Grandma's Wed., May 20.

HEIDI, MIA, Laura, Mary, Tara and Ann. Thanks for celebrating all the birthdays. Can't wait until all the fun we will have this summer. Let's have it all! I know I will! Love ya all! Jane.

S.C.I. - As our freshman year closes, I only wanted you to know that it wouldn't have been the same without you. You became to me what I always imagined that a sister would be like. I wish our friendship wouldn't have ended. I still love you and always will. Good luck always. You'll always be my number one S.C. Love, S.C. II

WED., May 20, be at Grandma's Tropical Nite. Fun, prizes, limbo all nite.

WANNA get away to a tropical place, come to Grandma's Wed., May 20. Dress with style.

DAVID, Congrats on graduating and receiving the Sieur DuLuth Award. I hope the future brings you much success and happiness. Love ya, Jane

TO THE MEN in 106A (and Bill) - There are many people that we meet in our lives, but very few will make a lasting impression on our minds and hearts. It is these people that we will think of often and who will always remain important to us as true friends. Thanks for all the special memories. Love, 101A

ANGELA, Cher Bear, Jennifer, Nancy, Liz, Shelly, and Jodine the Smelting Queen: You guys are the best. I will never forget the times we've had. Warehouse nights, the night at Lester River with Linus and Frank, Cruising in the Wackmobile, our crushes and heartaches - Angie's obsession with big dinks and "your blinker's still on." I'll miss you guys so much this summer - you better keep in touch and come visit. Without you, my freshman year wouldn't have been anywhere near complete. Thanks for the special times. Can't wait to make more memories next year at the Lemon Drop Inn. Love ya, Your Friend Kathy Lynne "Wacker"

JENNY, TYLER & DAN, It's been a fantastic five years together. Congrats on finally finishing school; see ya in the real world in two quarters. Love ya all! Jane

THERE WILL NEVER be another porch party quite like 405's. The fun never stopped from fall until spring. 4 years gone by, it's hard to believe. From a Gucci breakup to a Robert Redford King, who knows what next year will bring. Did we ever find out who invited the announcers? Was Betty ever found w/out any markers? CERTS, 312, Jose Quervo - now that's a friend. Let's party it up until the end.

C.T. - What a year! Thanks for being there for me. You've helped me out a lot, especially with my exhibit. I don't know how I could've done it without you. I'm so proud of you for finishing the triathlon meet. You've really come a long way! Keep up that ambition, and remember I'm always here for you! Love, Crashbaby

J, J, J, B, D. Thanks for a great year. I've had a fun time especially the one-eye games. When is my turn to do dishes? See you Friday. Love, Denise.

CONGRATS Todd G. and Jane S. You're finally a somebody. Thanks for such a super friendship. Good luck. - DIMES

NEED a break from finals!! Come to Grandma's 2nd Annual Tropical Nite Weds., May 20.

TIME to celebrate the end of another school year at the final goodbye party of the year at the Warehouse Bar Thursday of Finals Week, May 21. Last chance to see your friends before they go home for the summer.

OH WHAT A NIGHT: The Banquet! David Fischer how about a beer? It's on me! Tom Foley will be giving table top dancing lessons this Friday. Beaker Beers will be served at my graduation party, so bring your towel! Mac-Godfrey combination defeats the 'Sugar-Liz Club in hoops. Phillip has the queen bit yet? Lucy should I stay or should I go. I had a great time this year! Thanks for everything. Judy.

LAUR B., JUD, STEL H., SHEN: Congratulations to the best kinds of friends anyone could hope for. I'll always be thinking of you and I wish the best for ya'll wherever you go! Love always, Ker.

A SPECIAL thanks to Steve Emmer, Tony Goodman, John Terhure, and Mia Valentini for their excellent modeling for the Bulldog Shop. Have a great summer!

BONNIE - Thank you for being a wonderful roommate and the best of friends. Love, Kris.

MARY, thanks for everything. I could not have asked for a better friend. Have a great summer. Denise JABBA, It's been a "whale" of a time watching you "beached" all year. What's the problem, no friends left? You shouldn't make pizzas out of them! Quick, better close your mouth, your ignorance is showing. It's 10:00 and have you irritated your roommates yet? Have a psycho-analytic summer, Shamoo. KILL THE BIRD! - Supreme A.H.

TO MY 7TH Floor Family, Thanks for making my freshman year so much more special. I will never forget you all. Let's stay close and keep in touch over the summer. May our memories never die. See ya next year! Love, Kathy

C3 GRIGGS - You've made staying in the dorms more than worthwhile. Each one of you is special and we love you all. Maura & Squeege

MISS WIEBUSCH - I had a comical time living with you this year. Thanks for everything. You've got one week left to complete your list of projects. So get whip'in. Judith Lee

KATO, JO & T - Thanks for a great year. I'm going to miss you. Best of luck always, Andy SICK OF SCHOOL yet? Last party of the year Thursday of Finals Week at the Warehouse Bar, May 21. Be there, aloha!

IT'S DARK OUT there, why worry about more than you have to. UMD Escort Service will be open from 9 p.m. to Midnight during Finals Week.

PLAY IT SAFE, UMD Escort Service will be open special hours of 9 p.m. to Midnight Sunday to Wednesday of Finals Week.

WHAT EXACTLY happened last weekend at the Statesman Banquet? Where's Kathy Bursch? Taking shots with J.P.I.? Who missed the tour of the basement? Tim Franklin glad you could enjoy the lovely plants and interesting novels. Judy McDonald quit playing Sister Judy with the Pyrex beaker. Foley no socks on one thing, BUT NO SHOES! The editorial meeting held on the 5th floor with the "Captain" acting as chairman moved along smoothly. "Sugar" Schach what the hell are you trying to do. The video started at 3:30. Lucy where did you go? Kari did you leave YOUR shoes on?

BEND OVER and grab your ankles! Matrix, we're proud of you. Congratulations. We'll miss you lots. Come visit any time. Julia, Lesa, Sue, Wendy.

ELLEN-BUTT, You're the greatest! I'm gonna miss you next year. You'll be sad without your P-Tom, but you'll find a new "Ray of Sunshine." -M

KATH, JEN, & DONNA, 117B Oaklands won't ever be the same again! Congratulations Donna on completing your college career, even though you have a quarter to go. Jen - I know you're going to be great at student teaching - don't worry about it! Kath - what can I say? I'm looking forward to another year of fun, fun, fun, no matter where we live! Love, Sony

BULLHEAD - looking forward to a great summer up here. Maybe PEEWEE will get some blood flow. -DIMES

BILLY, What more can I say to someone who has meant the world to me this year? Without you at times I would have been lost. You made my freshman year bearable and special - one that I will never, ever forget. I'll always treasure my memories of the football banquet, our "Cheetos and pop party" at the North Shore, the Chinese Lantern and the rose, and our incredible knack at reading each other's minds and coming up with insiders like Wrangler Man, Voyeurism, Carl Lewis, teg deckor, teg deyk and she couldn't...if she used a crane. Thank you for all this -- it is my sincere hope and prayer that ours is a friendship that will last a lifetime. Love ya, Kathy

LAST chance to party with your friends Thursday of Finals Week, May 21. Couple of bucks for all the beer you can drink at the Warehouse.

TROPICAL NITE at Grandma's, Wed., May 20. Limbo contest "How low can you go!!!"

HI BOB!!

Happy Birthday to me. Love me. (Wendy) (P.S. Love ya, Your Roomies)

Fashions for the Masses

Judy McDonald brings you the ins & outs, the fads & fashions, and the dos & don'ts every other week. Don't miss Addicted to Style, only in the UMD STATESMAN.

This Summer Work For The Finest Companies In Minnesota.

Whether you're skilled or unskilled. Experienced or not. This summer, you can work inside the very best in manufacturing, engineering, law, telecommunications, real estate, public relations, banking and more.

Choose from a complete list of clerical and industrial job classifications.

Everything from general office, typist, receptionist, secretarial, data entry, personal computers and word processing.

To assembly, factory, janitorial, packaging and warehouse.

Scheduling is flexible. You can work full-time or part-time. With time off whenever you need it.

The pay is competitive. Clerical wages can reach $8-$10 an hour.

And the variety of assignments is sure to keep you challenged.

In the Twin Cities, call our Clerical Division at 338-7703. Or, our Industrial Division at 338-5421.

There are no fees—ever. Applications are accepted Mondays through Fridays, 8 am-2 pm.

This summer, work temporary. It pays.

Congratulations To My Friends!

...it took us awhile but we made it.

GOOD LUCK IN THE FUTURE, ESPECIALLY TO MY ROOMMATES HODGE and TOM.

LOVE, FLIP

See you at the Casa de Roma

KAY - Happy 20th on the 20th! I'll miss you this summer.

Kari

THE UMD Statesman

This 1986-87 STATESMAN bound edition marks the end of a historical composition era.

With the introduction of a new computerized editorial publishing system, (CText Inc.), the STATESMAN will end its reliance upon the Varityper 510 II composition system that has been the primary output unit since the Fall of 1979.

The STATESMAN as a leader in collegiate publishing, was rewarded for its contribution to Minnesota quality in newspapers. The STATESMAN was awarded six awards at the 1986-87 Minnesota Newspaper Association Conference including: First Place Typography & Design, First Place General Advertising Excellence, First Place Illustration.

The STATESMAN was also recognized by the University of Minnesota, Duluth on behalf of the Student Association for our service to the community and the University. Winning the Outstanding Organization Award for the 1986-87 year marked only the second time in STATESMAN history that the organization has won the honor from among at least 100 registered organizations. (1982-83 was the first time)

For all those dedicated persons who gave time and worked hard this year towards our goals and producing this product I would like to extend my best wishes to future success in whatever you do.

We hope that you enjoy this years work and continue to support the STATESMAN.

Enjoy your reading...

I would like to extend my personal thanks to the following professionals for their assistance to our goal:

Steve Patterson, Director of UMD Administrative Data Processing. Patterson was our first resource contact last summer when we did not know the difference between a 'bus network' and a '80286 micro-chip.'

John Slothower, Production Manager of the MINNESOTADAILY on the Twin Cities campus. Slothower shared his research of PC-based editorial publishing systems, in particular that of the C-Text corporation in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

J. Lance Cavanaugh, UMD Director of Development. Cavanaugh has been instrumental in developing creative ways of raising funds to help pay for a new system.

Harry Zabrocki, UMD Business Director. Zabrocki has offered his expertise and support to the STATESMAN through financing the initial phase and his work on the Service Fee Committee.

John Welske, Chairman 1986-87 Student Service Fee Committee. Welske offered his support through sorting out financial questions and woes that had to be clarified as a part of his committee work.

Lucy Kragness, STATESMAN Editorial Advisor. Kragness emerged from her cozy administration office and helped with developing staff writers and critiquing our weekly product.
